Rock Island Clean Line

Clean Line Energy is developing the Rock Island Clean Line, an approximately 500-mile, overhead, high-voltage direct current HVDC) transmission line that will run from northwest Iowa to an area near Morris, Illinois.

As a result of the outreach and research, they developed study corridors—typically 3 to 10 mile-wide study areas—in which they will work with communities and stakeholders to determine the optimal route for the Rock Island Clean Line in each community. Join them at one of their meetings and participate in the development process.
